Sketch of the new College of Business and Public Affairs Center

FROM THE DEAN’S CORNER…

It has been a very productive semester in the CBPA. The faculty, staff, and students are completing work that is innovating, impacting, and inspiring. This update highlights several initiatives and accomplishments. Congratulations to those individuals and programs that are mentioned in this latest update.

College Spotlight

On March 18th, the College of Business and Public Affairs held the Women’s Leadership Forum: Helping Women Create their Future. The event featured a panel discussion, networking, and several workshops.

Michael Antonio (Criminal Justice) is offering a summer class “Gang Prevention” (CRI-455-21 or CRI-555-21), in conjunction with the organization Voices4Peru, which includes travel to Peru for 13 days and nights. West Chester University students will observe and learn how alternative education can empower the impoverished youth of Peru through skill developing and team building activities.

The 3rd Annual Business Idea Competition has begun! This year features various competition tracks, all with a $4,000 grand prize. Finalists will be announced on April 1st and receive coaching from entrepreneurs with vast experience in specific industries. The final Business Idea Pitch will be held on April 22nd, followed by an award ceremony at the WCU Alumni and Foundation Center.

Recognitions

Jana Nestlrode (Criminal Justice) for being inducted into West Chester University’s Legacy of Leadership on March 7, 2015.

Chun-Chen (Liz) Wang (Marketing) for being selected as one of the finalists for the 13th Annual Marketing Management Association Master Teacher Award Competition. She was chosen based on the service-learning projects in her Consumer Behavior class.

In The News

Next month the Doctorate in Public Administration is projected to become the second doctorate on campus. Once approved, the program is expected to start in Fall 2015.
