Note: If you are interested in participating in research, contact the faculty member directly.

Julian L. Azorlosa, Ph.D. University of Delaware. Associate Professor. Teaching interests in learning theory, psychopharmacology, and history of Psychology. Current research interests in pedagogy in higher education including quiz effects, exam format, and grade inflation.
Email: Jazorlosa@wcupa.edu

Eleanor D. Brown, Ph.D. University of Delaware. Professor. Research, teaching and clinical interests in children's academic and social-emotional development, the impact of poverty and oppression on children and families, and models of individual and social change, with specific current research projects focused on positive effects of Head Start preschool and school-based arts enrichment programs.
Email: Ebrown@wcupa.edu

Rebecca Chancellor, Ph.D. University of California-Davis. Assistant Professor. Research and teaching interests in primatology, animal behavior, and human evolution.
Email: Rchancellor@wcupa.edu

Janet Chang, Ph.D. University of California, Davis. Assistant Professor. Teaching interests in social, cultural, and multicultural psychology. Research interests include ethnic/racial disparities in mental health and sociocultural influences on help seeking, social support, psychological functioning, and academic achievement.
Email: jchang@wcupa.edu

Angela T. Clarke, Ph.D. University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Associate Professor. Research, teaching, and clinical interests in stress and coping, health promotion among underserved African American youth, and community-based interventions to prevent depression and aggression among youth in low-income urban neighborhoods.
Email: Aclarke@wcupa.edu

Susan Gans, Ph.D. The University of Chicago. Professor. Teaching and research interests in developmental biological psychology, behavioral endocrinology, and emotion.
Email: Sgans@wcupa.edu

Erin Hill, Ph.D. Auckland University of Technology. Assistant Professor. Research and teaching interests in Health Psychology, including the influence of stress on well-being and health behaviors, women's health issues, and environmental influences on health.
Email: Ehill@wcupa.edu

Lauri Hyers, Ph.D. Pennsylvania State University. Professor. Overlapping teaching and scholarship interests include social psychology, qualitative research methods, discrimination, activism, diversity, intergroup relations, group identity, gender socialization, mentoring and rites of passage, psychology of utopian community and well-being, and animals and social justice.
Email: Lhyers@wcupa.edu

Farzin Irani, Ph.D. Drexel University. Assistant Professor. Research, teaching and clinical interests in examining brain-behavior relationships in diverse populations, with current research focus on clinical neuropsychology, functional neuroimaging (fNIRS) and health disparities in asthma.
Email: firani@wcupa.edu

Vanessa Kahlen Johnson, Ph.D. University of California, Berkeley. Professor. Teaching and research interests in developmental psychopathology, including the role of family relationships in children's social and emotional development and the prevention of maladjustment in early childhood.
Email: Vjohnson@wcupa.edu

Sandra Kerr, Ph.D. State University of New York at Stony Brook. Professor. Research interests in mindfulness based stress reduction programs.
Email: Skerr@wcupa.edu

V. Krishna Kumar, Ph.D. University of Wisconsin. Professor. Teaching, research, and clinical interests in hypnosis, creativity, paranormal beliefs and experiences, learning and memory, educational psychology, sociometry and psychodrama, research design, statistics, and psychometrics.
Email: Vkumar@wcupa.edu
Deborah Mahlstedt, Ph.D.  Temple University.  Professor.  Research and teaching interests in social psychology, small group processes, psychology of women, dating violence, models of social change. Email: Dmahlstedt@wcupa.edu

Vipanchi Mishra, Ph.D.  University at Albany, State University of New York. Assistant Professor.  Teaching interests in Industrial/Organizational Psychology and Statistics. Primary areas of research interest include performance appraisal, influence of cultural values on workplace behaviors, effects of occupational stressors on health outcomes, and factors influencing applicant reactions to selection tests and assessment center practices. Email: Vmishra@wcupa.edu

Karen Mitchell, Ph.D.  Kent State University.  Assistant Professor.  Teaching and research interests in Cognitive Psychology/Cognitive Neuroscience: human attention and episodic memory, especially source monitoring, eyewitness suggestibility, judging the veracity of others’ memories, cognitive disruptions in psychopathology, impact of aging and emotion on cognition. Email: kmitchell@wcupa.edu

Vahe Permzadian, M.A.  Brooklyn College, City University of New York.  Assistant Professor.  Teaching interests in statistics, research methods, motivation, and Industrial/Organizational Psychology. Research interests include the goal-setting phase of self-regulation as well as the adjustment and socialization of organizational newcomers. Email: VPermzadian@wcupa.edu

Loretta Rieser-Danner, Ph.D.  University of Texas.  Professor.  Research and teaching interests in social, emotional, and personality development in infancy and early childhood, including the role of individual differences in the developmental process as well as the assessment of university students’ learning outcomes. Email: Lrieser-danner@wcupa.edu

Aaron Rundus, Ph.D.  University of California-Davis.  Associate Professor.  Teaching interests in animal behavior, biological psychology and sensation & perception.  Research interests in animal communication and non-human primate behavioral ecology and conservation. Email: Arundus@wcupa.edu

Geeta Shivde, Ph.D.  University of Oregon.  Associate Professor.  Teaching interests in cognition and cognitive neuroscience; research interests include the effects of interference and inhibitory control processes on semantic/conceptual information in long-term and working memory. Email: Gshivde@wcupa.edu

Jasmin Tahmaseb-McConatha, Ph.D.  University of Georgia.  Professor, research and teaching interests that focus on various factors influencing well-being across adulthood including age, gender, social class, immigration, and migration as well as the impacts of neighborhood, community, and culture on wellbeing in middle and later adulthood. Email: Jtahmasebmconatha@wcupa.edu

Thomas W. Treadwell, Ed.D.  Temple University.  Professor.  Teaching and research interests include, Depression & Anxiety Disorders, concentrating on cognitive-behavioral group psychotherapy, psychodrama, sociometry, and electronic groups via Collaborative On-Line Research & Learning (CORAL) over the Internet. Email: Ttreadwell@wcupa.edu

Ekeoma Uzogara, Ph.D.  University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.  Assistant Professor.  Research and teaching interests include social psychology, discrimination, stress, social class, cultural and social influences on health, and social constructions of gender. Email: Euzogara@wcupa.edu

Stefani Yorges, Ph.D.  Purdue University.  Professor.  Research and teaching interests in Industrial/Organizational Psychology, motivation, stress, and leadership.  She manages a private consulting practice in executive leadership development. Email: Syorges@wcupa.edu

Deanne Zotter, Ph.D.  Kent State University.  Professor. Research and teaching interests in body image and eating disorders (including prevention), psychotherapy, and ethics Email: Dzotter@wcupa.edu

Updated 12/20/2016