Staff will log their time and tasks completed on their University Outlook calendar to track daily work and productively. Calendars are currently shared with their supervisor for review and confirmation.
Diversity, Equity and Inclusion FAQ’s during Remote Operations

Q. How can I report sexual misconduct incidents?
A. Any individual may make a report concerning sexual misconduct. Individuals are encouraged to report incidents of sexual misconduct as soon as possible in order for the University to respond promptly and effectively. Individuals are encouraged to file a report electronically and/or anonymously on the University’s website at https://www.wcupa.edu/_admin/diversityEquityInclusion/sexualmisconduct/ Individuals can also report concerns to the University’s Title IX Coordinator via phone (610-436-2513) or email at lklingensmith@wcupa.edu. Additionally, individuals have the right to be assisted by the University in notifying law enforcement authorities. Individuals can contact the WCU Department of Public Safety at 610-436-3311 for assistance with contacting the appropriate law enforcement agency.

Q. How can I report discrimination and harassment incidents?
A. Any individual can submit a report concerning discrimination or harassment. Individuals are encouraged to report incidents as soon as possible in order for the University to respond promptly and effectively. Individuals are encouraged to file a report electronically and/or anonymously on the University’s website at https://www.wcupa.edu/_admin/diversityEquityInclusion/reportIncident.aspx. Individuals can also report concerns via phone (610-436-2513) or email at lklingensmith@wcupa.edu.

Q. What will happen with matters that are currently under investigation?
A. Investigators will continue conducting investigations. However, for the immediate future, investigators will not conduct interviews in person but will continue investigating using available technology, including conducting interviews telephonically or through zoom. The University remains committed to the prompt resolution of complaints. However, the timeline of the investigation may be delayed due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Complainants, respondents and witnesses will be notified of any delays with written notice. All communications will be sent via email to WCU email addresses.

Q. What will happen with Title IX and other hearings that are currently scheduled?
A. The University will not be conducting in-person student conduct hearings for the remainder of the semester. Hearings will be conducted using available technology, such as video conferencing. The University will coordinate with students to schedule hearings and provide instructions on how to use available technology. Decisions regarding the scheduling of hearings will consider the availability of participants, the ability to conduct online hearings, the ability to ensure due process for all parties, and the ability to provide sufficient privacy protections. If the party is not in the same location as his or her advisor, breaks will be scheduled to allow the party to consult with his or her advisor.

Q. What Title IX resources are available for students?
A. The Office for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion will continue to offer appropriate supportive and interim measures to students. The University’s ability to offer resources on campus or in person may be impacted given our current circumstances. The University will continue to assist students in identifying supportive resources in the community in which they reside. Any existing No Contact Directives remain in effect and continue to apply to in-person, online, text message, via 3rd parties or through other means of communication.

Q. Are workshops still being offered to students, faculty and staff during this time?
A. All in-person workshops have been canceled for the spring semester. Online webinars will still take place. In addition, staff are exploring virtual opportunities to be offered over the summer. Periodically visit the Training Education page for an updated listing of upcoming events. Search committee training continues to be offered via Zoom upon request.
