Happy July from WCU!

We hope this email finds you well and excited to enjoy the long holiday weekend with your family.

Today’s #WCUWisdomWednesday features Robin Catalano, who will share some insight into our Learning Assistance and Resource Center (LARC) in the video below:

WCU offers many academic resources to students not only through the LARC, but also across campus. Students can take advantage of individualized Success Coaching, seek help from the Office of Services for Students with Disabilities, or improve their writing skills at The Writing Center. Your student’s academic success is our priority at WCU, so we have the services available to make sure your student is successful. As a tip, we always encourage students to reach out for support early and often, even if they don’t think they will need it. It is much easier to set up tutoring, and then not need it, than to need tutoring right away and perhaps experience a wait. This week, explore the links above and have a conversation with your student about the academic resources they may need to be successful at WCU.

As always, if you have any questions, feel free to reach out to the Office of Parent and Family Relations at parentfamilyrelations@wcupa.edu or New Student Programs at orientation@wcupa.edu.
