About
Art of Wellbeing would like to reward one student each year who intends to make a contribution to public health and wellbeing. You don’t have to currently be studying a health degree, but you will have to demonstrate your intention to improve health and wellbeing after graduation. The scholarship is intended to be used towards living a healthy lifestyle while at university (because quality food and gym memberships can be expensive!).

Eligibility
An enrolled undergraduate or graduate student at a verified college or university.

How To Enter
Submit a 200 word essay on what you plan on doing after you graduate from college to help public health and wellbeing.

To apply for the scholarship please email your essay to scholarship@artofwellbeing.com before December 31. Please include your contact details and the name of the university you attend.
