George S. Claghorn

Dr. Claghorn began at West Chester University as the first Philosophy professor on the West Chester faculty in 1963. He founded the Philosophy Department and became Chair of the department from its establishment in 1966 until 1996. After stepping down as Chair, he continued to serve capably as a member of the department until May of 2004 when he retired. During that period he not only succeeded in building the largest Philosophy Department in the State System of Higher Education, but also to develop the only M.A. program in Philosophy in the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education.

His scholarship includes his work in the study of Jonathan Edwards and is recognized throughout academic circles as first rate scholarship. He has been the featured speaker at international symposia on Edward's through and has received two honorary doctorates in recognition of his accomplishments.

Dr. Claghorn's professional and academic memberships include the American Philosophical Association, Metaphysical Society of America, Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Chester County Historical Society and the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculties. His University services includes extensive service on the Curriculum and Academic Policies Council (CAPC) from 1976 through 1995; chair of the Woman-in-Residence Committee, and organizer and chair of the conference for students of the School of Arts and Letters – "Careers in the Humanities" in March, 1998. He has also served the University on the following Committees: Graduate Council, Undergraduate Programs Committee, Long-range Planning Committee, Research and Grants Committee, Tenure, Promotions, and Sabbaticals Committee and the Faculty Senate (Chair of the Ethics Committee).

Eugene Klein

Professor Klein served as the undergraduate coordinator for the School of Music from 1988 until his retirement in 2003. In that role, he was revered as a great servant and leader on campus. He was also an excellent cellist and teacher of cello. He also served as co-director of the annual String Day, an event that helped to recruit string majors to the department.

As a departmental citizen, Professor Klein served on many University committees throughout his tenure at WCU. He served as chair of the Undergraduate Affairs Committee and was a member of the School of Music Executive Council, the School of Music Curriculum Committee, the Honors Convocation Committee and many search committees. He designed and implemented the Sophomore Barrier for Music Majors which was a major contribution to the School of Music and is used as an assessment tool.

As a University citizen, Professor Klein served on the Summer Orientation Committee, the Admissions Open House Committee and was a frequent performer at special events for the University including holiday receptions.

Beyond the University, he was an active member in the American String Teacher's Association, the American Federation of Musicians and was guest conductor and adjudicator in the Harford County Public Schools.

Charles G. Price

Dr. Price began his career at West Chester University in 1985 and joined the ranks as a tenure track professor in 1990. He brought with him a rich store of experience within the classroom, having already taught at various colleges and universities for 23 years. He also had performed extensively as an oboist, including substitute principal of the San Francisco Symphony and principle of the Riverside Symphony, the Riverside Opera, the San Bernardino Symphony, the Redlands Bowl and the Trenton Civic Light Opera orchestras.

Following his tenure-track appointment in 1990, Dr. Price was appointed Graduate Coordinator for the School of Music and served in this capacity from 1991 – 1995. He continued to teach and added sections of Fine Arts Music (ethnic emphasis) and Form and Style in the Arts (writing emphasis). He taught several additional graduate courses as well. His teaching went well beyond the classroom. He focused on three principal areas: student advising, writing emphasis, and a commitment to the Honors Program.

His scholarship includes developing courses for the Honors Program for several years. He read papers at national meetings of the American Handel Society, the Society for 18th Century Music, the American Culture Association, and for regional meetings of the College Music Society and the American Musicological Society. He presently has a book in press, and has published five articles and two book reviews in scholarly journals and has appeared as oboe soloist in five recitals with the Chamber Music Consort of Philadelphia.

Areas of service included undergraduate advisor, graduate coordinator, WCU Honors Council, and Scholarship Committee. He was appointed by the President to the WCU commission on the Status of Women and served on the Council of Graduate Coordinators. Dr. Price also belongs to several professional organizations and has served as president of the Mid-Atlantic Chapter of the American Musicological Society for two terms (1988-92).

H. Lee Southall

Professor Southall was an excellent teacher in the classroom and in his low brass studio. He was an outstanding conductor of bands, brass groups and jazz ensembles. Student evaluations consistently supported that he had an ongoing rapport with School of Music students. Many of his students became fine music teachers and excellent jazz ensemble directors, while others became professional performers in the military bands.

As director of the Criterions, Professor Southall coordinated many requests for musical performances for ceremonies, dances, entertainment at picnics, commencements and luncheons on campus. Other significant events included performing for the Statewide Alumni Association, the Stateside Trustees meeting, President Adler's Inauguration, the Academic Honors Convocation and the initial fundraising event for the new Performing Arts Building.

As Coordinator of Jazz Studies, Southall began the "Friends of Jazz" mailing list that eventually became the "WCU Friends of Jazz", a group of over 1,100 supporters. He organized the first Annual Criterions Alumni Reunion in 1984 and continues to organize and support the event in his retirement. He also organized the Annual Jazz Festival in 1990, which is a highly regarded cultural event each year for the community and the University. He began a Jazz Endowment which became the Michael Falcone Memorial Jazz Scholarship.

Paul Streveler

Dr. Streveler taught in the Department of Philosophy from 1970 until his retirement in May of 2002. He established himself as an outstanding instructor of both undergraduate and graduate students. A letter in support of his nomination for emeritus designation from a former student, now an attorney, confirms Dr. Streveler's mentorship qualities which caused many students to reflect on their lives and learn something about them.

Beyond the classroom, Dr. Streveler's accomplishments include recognition as a major contributor to scholarship in the field of medieval thought. His scholarly articles have been published in numerous highly respected journals including Anselm Studies, Vivarium and Franciscan Studies. He also co-authored "Robert Holcot on Seeing the Future Clearly: Quodlibetal Questions on Future Contingencies" published by the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies Toronto 1995. Dr. Streveler is an outstanding scholar as well as an outstanding professor.

Within the Philosophy Department, he designed and taught new undergraduate courses in Biomedical Ethics and Environmental Ethics. He is commended by colleagues for his spirit of collegiality and the building of goodwill within the Department.

John W. Weaver

Dr. Weaver began his tenure at West Chester University in September of 1973 as an associate professor in the Department of Mathematical Sciences where he taught at the graduate and undergraduate levels and was primarily responsible for the initiation and development of the Computer Science Program within the department. During the time from 1980 until 1995, he was promoted to Professor and continued development of the Computer Science Program. Of particular importance was the advising the graduate students in the emerging graduate program. In 1983, he became chairperson of the Mathematical Sciences Department which consisted of Computer Science, Mathematics Education, Pure Mathematics, and Applied Mathematics. From July 1, 1995 until April of 2002 he was a professor of Computer Science, and in July of 1995 Computer Science became a separate department of which Dr. Weaver served as Chairperson until May 2002.

Dr. Weaver's is well known for his dedication to West Chester University with a significant record of service which includes service on the Curriculum and Academic Policies Council (CAPC) for 11 years. During that time, he served on the Undergraduate Programs Subcommittee for six years. Other committee service included: the Registrar's Advisor Committee, the Space Management and Calendar Committee, Summer School Compensation Committee, the Class Scheduling Task Force and the Electronic Registration Task Force.

Dr. Weaver as always played an important role in university fundraising efforts, particularly when they directly impact the students. He is listed in the Who's Who of Computer Graphics and in the Who's Who in the East.

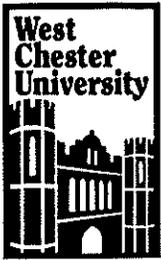

Richard I. Woodruff

Dr. Woodruff came to West Chester University in the fall of 1966. For 25 years, he taught Biology 100, serving as coordinator for most of that time. Since then, he has served as coordinator for General Biology, the biology major's introductory course. Professor Woodruff was instrumental in shaping the curriculum of the Biology department, and was a member of the curriculum committee during several transitions in the department. He was among the faculty who introduced the concept of team teaching using a large-lecture, small-laboratory format. For his outstanding teaching accomplishments, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania awarded Professor Woodruff a Teaching Fellow Award in 1978.

Professor Woodruff has made significant contributions beyond the classroom. He created the Biology department Light Microscopy Facility. Professor Woodruff acquired all of the instrumentation in the current facility, and actually fabricated some of the equipment himself. This facility which utilizes advanced techniques has enabled graduates obtain careers in science fields that use microscopes extensively. Dr. Woodruff received a National Science Foundation (NSF) and a National Institute of Health (NIH) research award. He continues to train numerous undergraduate students in his laboratory by providing them with paid employment during the summer months.

Dr. Woodruff has been recognized for his research endeavors by receiving the WCU Faculty Merit Award for Scholarship in 2000 and again in 2004 by receiving the Distinguished Sponsored Research Award. He was concurrently awarded both a National Science Foundation (NSF) and a National Institute of Health (NIH) Award, and is the only faculty member in the history of the University to hold simultaneous awards from these agencies. In the past five years, Professor Woodruff has secured research grants totaling over half a million dollars.

In the area of service, Dr. Woodruff served a term as President of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). As a University citizen, he has served on committees including the Pre-Medical and Pre-Professional Committee for 10 years, the Faculty Development Committee (FDC) for 7 years, and on the Faculty Senate.

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING

BE IT RESOLVED THAT THE COUNCIL OF TRUSTEES OF WEST CHESTER UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA HEREBY APPROVES THE AMENDED MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING BY AND BETWEEN WEST CHESTER UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA AND THE FUND FOR WCU DATED JULY 1, 2005.

Dear ,

During the past two WCU Council of Trustees meetings, Trustee Carole Aichele updated the Council on a request from State System legal counsel that System universities must establish clear legal separations between them and their affiliated foundations. This separation is critical for several reasons:

- 1) In order to undertake certain types of private-public partnerships (such as the student housing initiative or research projects) and keep attending costs and debt obligations separate from the State, foundations must be able to demonstrate that they are not instruments of the State.
- 2) Affiliated foundations are often asked by their universities to support activities that cannot be funded with state dollars (e.g., federal lobbyists) or to receive gifts that state law prevents a public university from accepting (e.g., insurance). Affiliated foundations without clear independence may not be able to provide these services or accept such gifts.
- 3) Private foundations enjoy certain privacy rights that public entities do not. For example, private foundations are not required to share the names of donors who wish to remain anonymous. The lack of clear distinctions between a public university and its affiliated foundation can leave sensitive donor information open to public scrutiny, particularly by the media (e.g., University of Louisville and University of Toledo Foundations).

Legal challenges to the independence of affiliated foundations have been increasing. As a result, rulings by several state and federal courts have established tests to determine a foundation's independence. These include that the foundation can demonstrate that its incorporation, governing boards, and staff are distinct from its affiliated university. The foundation is also expected to pay rent for use of university facilities and establish contracts for services with the university.

In order to address this mandate from System legal counsel, WCU is proposing changes to the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the University and the Fund for WCU. To that end, please find attached a document that outlines the changes to the MOU as recommended by System legal counsel. In each instance where a change is requested, both the original text and proposed revised text are shown.

A summary of the changes and rationale are as follows:

Section 4. Distribution of Gift Income.

The original text requires that all gifts to the Fund be transferred to the University at least quarterly. The new language allows the University to authorize the Fund to retain specific gifts in order to benefit the University. For example, since the Fund will be building the undergraduate business center for WCU, it is important for the project's financing and construction that gifts contributed for that purpose remain with the Fund. Also, a sentence is added which clarifies the disposition of endowment gifts.

Section 6. Collaboration and Services

The original text of this section commits the University to providing specific support to the Fund in the form of staff, services, and space. It also defines a University-directed selection and evaluation process for the Fund's executive director. System legal counsel believes that these provisions do not provide the "arms length" relationship that is critical to the Fund's independent legal standing. Therefore, the proposed text recommends a new arrangement in which the Fund provides its own Executive Director (and other staff it might need) and plays the lead role in staff evaluation. In addition, all services that the Fund and WCU may provide to each other will be based on contracts. Lastly, the Fund will be required to pay market rent to the University for the space it occupies.

Section 13. Term and Review of MOU

The original language in sections 13A and 13B provided for automatic renewal of the MOU unless either party elects to discontinue or revise the relationship. System legal counsel has explained that the term of agreements between System universities and non-state entities should not exceed five years. Therefore, it is recommended that article 13A reflect the new dates of the initial term of the MOU and that section 13B allow for a five-year term of renewal.

In addition to the MOU, you will recall that the Council approved a Fiduciary Agreement between WCU and the Fund that authorizes the Fund to serve as the manager of certain University endowment assets (approved 11/21/02). Because that Fiduciary Agreement is set to expire on June 30, 2005, and the MOU that serves as an addendum to that Fiduciary Agreement is being recommended for revision, the Council will also be asked to approve a new Fiduciary Agreement with the Fund that incorporates the revised MOU and a five-year renewal term. A copy of this Fiduciary Agreement is also included with this letter. Aside from the date changes and new MOU addendum, the remainder of the agreement remains the same.

At the May 4, 2005 Council meeting, it is anticipated that the Advancement Committee will be recommending approval of the revised MOU. The renewal of the Fiduciary Agreement will be proposed by the Finance Committee at that same meeting.

Thank you in advance for reviewing the attached documents. If you have any questions or suggestions, or would like to meet with us to discuss these agreements, please contact either of us at your convenience and we will be happy to assist you.

Sincerely,

Mark P. Mixner
Vice President for Administrative and Fiscal Affairs
