1. Sub-committee updates
   - Book club -- Jodie and Tricia. The second meeting of the book club had very engaged participants. Tricia distributed the questions in advance. Participants highlight the readings, contribute from their own experience. The facilitators have a good system in place so things are really going well. Jodi feels optimistic that the book club will lead to some new courses. Jodi’s department is interested in running this book club again. Our recommendation is that we since we have already established book club selections for the spring and fall that Jodi could offer it through Service Learning.
   - Announcement from Lisa: TLAC will host a book discussion for The Spark of Learning, the book by the keynote speaker for the SOTLA conference on January 10th at Faunbrook, only 20 participants can attend. Flyer was promoted to all faculty. Those that attend must attend book discussion and SoTLA conference.
   - SoTLA Conference -- CELT members should commit to attending, and also be willing to serve as moderators for sessions. Proposals are due November 13, submitted online.
   - CELT Tank in Sykes 10A, read proposal in advance, along with FAQs.

2. Spring Workshop planning
Committee members: Jackie, Beatrice, Rachel, Stephen
By next meeting, we need potential speakers lined up.
Melissa suggested Jennifer Gonzalez, host of Cult of Pedagogy podcast.

3. Mindful Mentoring workshop, January 25, 2018 at the Contemplative Center, 3:30-6, includes panel on Moving to Full Professor and Beyond, mindful movement and self-care strategies.

4. Promotion of events/initiatives:
   ○ Each of us should pick two individuals to reach out to about applying for a CELT award (and attending CELT tank).
   ○ Each of us should encourage two colleagues to submit a proposal for SOTLA Conference. Proposals are due November 13, submitted online.
