

Outstanding Faculty Recipients
2013-2014 Academic Year

COLLEGE OF HEALTH SCIENCES
Dean: Dr. Linda Adams

Communication Sciences and Disorders: Dr. Cheryl Gunter, Chair
Dr. Dianne Spragale, Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders

-Professor Dianne Spragale of the Communicative Disorders Department teaches SPP101: Introduction to Communicative Sciences and Disorders. Of the professors I have had at West Chester, she is one of the most caring about her students. She goes to all lengths to make sure students understand the material by relating it to her experiences in the field. It is evident that she wants to see her students succeed. Her hands-on teaching method also addresses all learning styles and holds students attention. Overall, Professor Spragale's enthusiasm is a breath of fresh air and deserves to be recognized by the West Chester community

Kinesiology: Dr. Frank Fry, Chair
Dr. Jamie Robbins, Department of Kinesiology

-Dr. Robbins exemplifies a professor who truly wants her students to engage in the material and actively learn. She shows a real passion for the subject taught every single day and brings so much energy to the classroom. Dr. Robbins challenges us to think in new ways and apply the material to our own lives and future careers. Through her guidance, I now have a better understanding for how to work with future clients. I know I will continue to learn and grow each day in her class.

Nursing: Dr. Charlotte Mackey, Chair
Dr. Charlotte Mackey, Department of Nursing

-I would like to nominate Dr. Charlotte Mackey, Chair of the Nursing Department, as an outstanding faculty member and adviser on West Chester University's campus. Although Dr. Mackey has only been my official adviser for a semester, she provides invaluable advice and recommendations throughout my time at West Chester. Entering as a psychology major, I quickly decided my freshman year my true passions lied within the nursing profession. Unsure of the path to take and courses necessary to transfer into the nursing program, Dr. Mackey communicated with me throughout the year-and-a-half process, providing advice on which classes and steps I should take next. Upon entering into the nursing program in December of 2013, Dr. Mackey became my official adviser. When scheduling for classes for next semester, she helped me plan a schedule, discussed different avenues I could take in possibly obtaining a Biology minor, and ensured I had a smooth adjustment into the nursing program. Dr. Mackey is a wonderful adviser and faculty member. She truly cares about helping each of her advisees and students succeed.
